DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 19 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Correction and/or clarification is required.

Regarding claims 19 and, the recitation “ a means for further generating said pass/fail indicator signal” in claim 19 and 20 are indefinite because it is not clear as to this “ means for further generating said pass/fail indicator signal” is the same or different than the “means for generating a pass/fail indicator signal” in claim 18. The recitation “a means for detecting said event of said monitored voltage and generating a second trip signal until receipt of a next pulse of said delayed reset pulse stream; and a means for generating said pass/fail indicator signal as a function of said first trip signal and said second trip signal” is indefinite because it is not clear what the “ second trip signal” is meant by and how it is generated. The Applicant is requested to point out in which drawing the set of claims 18-20 reads on.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4, 5 and 18-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102( b) as being anticipated by Yamamoto et al. (USP. 5,444,744).

Regarding claim 1, figure 8 of Yamamoto shows a clock based voltage deviation detector comprising:

a pulse module (15b);

an indicator module (9a, 11, 12); and a correlation module (13). The correlation module receives the clock signal (the output of element 15a) and the indicator output (D) of the indicator module.

Regarding claim 4, the indicator module comprises a comparator (9a) and a latch (11).

Regarding claim 5, the latch-enabled comparator (9a, 11) has three inputs for receiving the input signal, the reference signal and the pulse signal and for outputting a fail-safe signal.

Regarding claims 18-20, figure 8 of Yamamoto shows a clock based voltage deviation detector comprising:

- a means for generating a reset pulse stream as a function of a clock signal (15a, 15b);

- a means for generating a pass/fail indicator signal (13) as a function of the reset pulse;

- means for detecting and generating a trip point is element (9a).

- a means for correlating an event of the pass/fail indicator signal (13).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2 and 3 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 10-14 are allowed.

Claims 2 and 3 are objected to because the prior art of record fails to teach or fairly suggest a pulse module having an exclusive-OR gate and a delay cell as called for in claim 2; a counter for receiving a clock signal and a storage module as called for in claim 3.

Claims 10-14 are allowed because the prior art of record fails to teach or fairly suggest a clock based voltage deviation detector comprising a counter and a storage module as called for in claim 10.
